

Harvard University Accreditation

Current Accreditation Status

Harvard University is accredited by the New England Commission of Higher Education (formerly the Commission on Institutions of Higher Education of the New England Association of Schools and Colleges, Inc.). Harvard University's last comprehensive evaluation took place in Fall 2017 and its accreditation was continued on April 19, 2018 by the New England Commission of Higher Education. The University's interim (fifth-year) report submitted for consideration in August 2022 has been accepted. The next comprehensive evaluation will be scheduled for Fall 2027.

Specialized Accreditation

All Harvard undergraduate and graduate schools, as well as the professional schools, are accredited under Harvard University by the New England Commission of Higher Education. A few of the graduate professional schools have additional specialized accreditation, which are listed below.

School	Specialized Accrediting Agency
Harvard Business School	Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business
Harvard Divinity School	Association of Theological Schools
Harvard Graduate School of Design	National Architectural Accrediting Board
	Landscape Architectural Accreditation Board
	American Institute of Certified Planners
Harvard Law School	American Bar Association
Harvard Medical School	Liaison Committee on Medical Education
Harvard School of Dental Medicine	Commission on Dental Accreditation of the American Dental Association
School of Engineering and Applied Sciences	Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology
School of Public Health	Council on Education for Public Health

For more information please visit OIRA's website oira.harvard.edu/accreditation. For questions, please contact oira@harvard.edu.

